AMEND <SB>

House Joint Resolution No. 1479*

by inserting the following immediately after the fourth WHEREAS clause:

WHEREAS, Carnton Plantation was constructed and maintained largely through the labor of enslaved people. In 1860, the McGavock family enslaved forty-four people, who worked the land and lived under the threat of violence and separation. These enslaved persons endured systematic oppression, including hard labor, forced relocation to Alabama during the Civil War, and separation from their loved ones. The brutal system of slavery at Carnton Plantation was also maintained through surveillance and control. Mariah Reddick, an enslaved woman, served as Carrie McGavock's body servant, a role that meant being constantly available to the plantation owners; and
